Operational Support Services Help Fox Valley Non-Profits A-mazing Events to Offer Planning, Staffing, Space, Technology

Appleton, Wis.—A-mazing Events, an event and meeting planning company based in Appleton, Wisconsin, now offers a full range of administrative support services to non-profit organizations. The company has made its professional event-planning staff, administrative support personnel, office space, technology, and equipment available to mission-driven non-profits.

Non-profit organizations can choose from a menu of services to help them meet their budgets, needs, and schedules. Services can include full-time professional phone service and dedicated phone lines, marketing and graphic design, PR and copywriting, social media management, meeting management, database development, and improved buying power.

“Our objective is to support these helping organizations when they need it most, like during a staffing or volunteer crunch or a big special project,” said Joey Reader, president and founder of A-mazing Events. “We are efficient and professional experts who free up essential resources. We also make special events smooth, uplifting experiences that inspire more people to join in mission-driven work.” A-mazing Events has a successful track record of supporting more than 15 area non-profit organizations that work in the areas of mental wellness, philanthropy, regional economic development, domestic abuse services, job training, and faith-based community organizing.

The company continues to specialize in designing and planning corporate milestone celebrations, open houses and ground-breaking ceremonies, conferences and tradeshow, awards dinners and galas, picnics, holiday parties, incentive trips, destination management services, and venue management.
